J.R. Steele, Jr., LLM '71

Robert A. Altman, a Washington lawyer and chief executive of ZeniMax, the Rockville, MD,-based parent company of video game giant

Elyse Ayami Shimada, JD '14

John D. Haggerty, JD '11

Tracy A. Badua, JD '10

Sean Murphy is joining Cooley as a partner in the firm's global fund

Daniel S. Stromberg is head of Outten & Golden's eDiscovery Practice

Robert Emory Gordon, JD '05

Christopher M. Dunn has been appointed to the Hawai'I District Court of

The Honorable Carlos F. Lucero, JD '64

Mark G. Davis, JD '87

He represents clients before the International Trade Commission (ITC)

January 18, 2021

The Washington Post

Biden Administration Should Sue Donald

February 12, 2021

WUSA-CBS9

A 'Pro-Life' Decision Burdens Minorities,

February 4, 2021

The Washington Post

Poor Most During a Pandemic

February 12, 2021

WUSA-CBS9

A degradation of the rule of

February 12, 2021

WUSA-CBS9

Recent Developments

J.R. Steele, Jr., LLM '71

Army, Mr. Steele went into private law practice specializing in patent, international practice.

trademark, and copyright matters. During his career, he built an

Advocate General's Corps and served in Vietnam, receiving the Bronze

Bethesda Softworks. Long before he entered the video game industry,

ZeniMax, the Rockville, MD,-based parent company of video game giant negotiated a $7.5 billion deal in September for Microsoft to acquire

...