

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
LAW SCHOOL

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY LAW SCHOOL
SUPPLEMENTAL LEGAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Law School offers an extensive schedule of Supplemental Legal Education (“SLE”) courses, for attorneys. All courses listed in the Law School Bulletin are available (space permitting) to SLE students with the exception of : required first-year J.D. courses (numbered 217 and below), independent legal research and writing courses, legal clinics and outside placement, trial and moot court competitions, Law School publications, and courses related to the Oxford-GW International Human Rights Law Program.

SLE students are not officially admitted to The George Washington University. They do not take examinations or receive grades in their courses, nor do they receive academic credit that would count toward a degree. SLE students are not entitled to student activities or medical privileges at the University. After completing a course, SLE students are entitled to receive a certificate of completion.

Graduates of ABA- accredited law schools may take courses on a SLE basis if seats are available after regular degree candidates have been accommodated.

Attorneys seeking competence in an advanced professional area may choose courses in many areas of concentration, including:

- Environmental Law
- Government Procurement Law
- Intellectual Property Law
- International and Comparative Law

Registration: Once admitted to the SLE Program, registration is simply completed by payment of tuition fees, which are as follows*:

- 2 credit course- $4,120.00
- 3 credit course- $6,180.00
- 4 credit course- $8,240.00

 Graduates of the George Washington University Law School receive a $100/ credit discount.*

Payment is to be made in person to the Dean of Students office, 700 20th Street, N.W., 1st Floor ("E" Building of the Law School), Washington, D.C. 20052, Monday through Friday between 9:00 am and 5:00pm. The office can be reached for questions at 202-994-8320 or deanofstudents@law.gwu.edu. Payment should be made no later than the date of your first class. Checks should be made out to :

GW Government Contracts Program: The George Washington University Government Contracts Program is separate from the Law School and offers short courses in industry and government specifically designed to meet the needs of those working in the area of government contracts. In addition to presenting a theoretical base for understanding government contract principals, the courses emphasize the discussion and solution of real issues encountered in day-to-day contract situations. These courses have proven to be of considerable worth to contract negotiators, managers, engineers, and accountants, as well as attorneys. For more information, please contact:
