

GW Law School
 Consortium Registration Form
 LLM student registration at Georgetown University Law Center

A candidate for the LLM degree may take graduate-level courses at Georgetown University Law Center through the Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area. A maximum of 6 credit hours of such courses may be credited towards the LLM degree. Permission to take Consortium courses must be granted by the relevant Program Director, the Law School's Dean of Students office, and the Registrar of Georgetown University Law Center. The grade of Credit (CR) or No Credit (NC) will be recorded for such courses. To receive the grade of CR, a student must attain a grade of C- or higher.

Please note: Space in classes cannot be guaranteed; students should have an alternate plan.
