I. DESCRIPTIONS OF SEMINARS AND COURSES COVERING “SELECTED TOPICS... TO BE ANNOUNCED AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION”

The Law School Bulletin indicates that certain seminars and courses will cover “selected topics … to be announced at the time of registration.” The following paragraphs describe the coverage of seminars and courses of this type that will be offered in the Fall 2017 Semester. Please see the Law School Bulletin for the description of other seminars and courses. Enrollment in each seminar is limited. Enrollment in each course may be limited.

6262-11 Corporation Law Seminar: Corporate Transactions Seminar (2) L. Fairfax
This seminar will expose students to the legal, economic, ethical, and practical issues associated with drafting documents for major corporate transactions, such as stock and asset acquisitions, mergers and venture capital transactions. Students learn the skills necessary to review, analyze, and draft the various documents that comprise a corporate transaction including a letter of intent, a purchase or merger agreement, a legal opinion and other closing documents. Final grades will be based on class participation, weekly writing assignments, and a final writing project consisting of documents that reflect consummation of a corporate transaction. Enrollment is limited. Prerequisite: Corporations (Writing assignments and final writing project) (Experiential/Skills).

6262-12 Corporation Law Seminar (2) Mitchell
This seminar will examine the development of corporate law and theory in the twentieth century with particular emphasis on the relationship between corporate law and different political, social and economic discourses. (Research Paper)

6264-12 Securities Law Seminar: Enforcement of the Federal Securities Law (2) Sturc
The Securities and Exchange Commission is the largest and most important agency that enforces financial laws and regulations. Its enforcement policies and practices have a profound effect on corporate culture, capital formation, and financial markets. Understanding how the SEC investigates possible violations and enforces its laws is important for lawyers engaged in complex civil and criminal litigation and for corporate lawyers counseling public companies and financial institutions. This course supplements the corporations and securities law courses and applies principles developed in the civil procedure, criminal procedure, and corporations classes. It goes into depth concerning frequent subjects of enforcement actions, enforcement processes and remedies, and legal, tactical and ethical considerations facing lawyers who practice before the SEC. A former associate director of the SEC’s Division of Enforcement leads the seminar. The course is aimed at students interested in corporate law and governance, litigation, and white-collar investigations and litigation. (Research paper and class participation)

6351-21 Reading Group: (1) Marcus / Epps
This reading group will offer a grounding in the classical ideas and law of press freedom, with an eye toward applying these ideas to the challenges of 21st Century media technology and political change. Beginning with John Milton’s Areopagitica (and its famous rhetorical question, “who ever knew Truth put to the worse, in a free and open encounter?”) we will try to grapple with a new situation in which deliberate falsehood and propaganda threaten to swamp Milton’s all-conquering Truth, and (in the words of Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer), “the crowded theater is the Internet.” (Research paper)

6351-22 Reading Group: Mass Incarceration (1) R. Jones
This reading group examines the growth and consequences of detention centers, jails, and prisons in this age of “mass incarceration.” Nearly 2.4 million Americans are behind bars, roughly one in every 100 adults, far more per crime than any industrialized nation. If we include persons on parole or probation, one adult in 23 is under correctional supervision. With cost taxpayers paying in excess of $75 billion each year and with African Americans and Latinos overrepresented in the American justice system, some scholars, advocates, and policy makers argue that mass incarceration represents one of the greatest social injustices of our time. The course is designed to stimulate students to think critically about contemporary punishment practices, and the serious social and economic consequences of mass incarceration. What accounts for the growth of incarceration, including both prison and jail? What have been the effects of the prison build-up on individuals, their families, and communities? What are the public safety consequences? What happens to individuals when they attempt to reenter society and what barriers do they face? What happens to the children of incarcerated parents? (Research paper and class participation)

6379-20 Criminal Law & Procedure Seminar: Wrongful Convictions (2) George, Tafti
Exonerations of the innocent force our criminal justice system to confront new and unsettling realities. They remind us that that system is only as good as the people and practices inhabiting it. They raise serious questions about its truthseeking abilities. And they compel us to ask what went wrong in these cases, what compensation is owed, and what reforms are due. This seminar will consider these questions. It will review the causes of wrongful convictions, and the jurisprudence that follows, with each session devoted to an intensive study of a particular facet of the topic. Students will be assigned each week to lead class discussions criticizing or defending particular judicial opinions or scholarly materials. The papers in this class are not of sufficient length to fulfill the legal writing requirement. (Class participation and research paper)

6399-10 Constitutional Law Seminar: Leading Cases in Context (2) Maggs, Justice Thomas
Opinions in leading Supreme Court cases usually reveal only part of a complex story. Although they discuss the facts immediately leading to the litigation, they often do not fully expose the motivations of the litigants or the social and political context of legal controversies. The opinions also cannot describe the reactions to the Court's decisions or the decisions’ subsequent influence. Discovery of additional facts about the context of a particular case often yields a deeper or different understanding of the Supreme Court’s actions. In this seminar, students will observe this phenomenon by studying a more complete story of a number of leading cases than is usually presented in Constitutional Law courses. The seminar will culminate with each student writing and presenting a thorough history of a Supreme Court decision not discussed in class. Prerequisites: Law 6214 & Law 6380. (Class participation, presentation, and research paper)

6401-10 Selected Topics in Constitutional Law (Unique Legal Problems for DC) (1) Nathan
This seminar explores the unique legal issues facing the District of Columbia, a large city with all of the usual problems of a major metropolis--crime and corrections; housing and homelessness; unemployment and job training; education and truancy; welfare and minimum wages; etc.--with the overlay of its constitutional status as a federal enclave under the complete control of the U.S. Congress. It will focus on the conflicts created by its various and often competing roles, as a federal agency (e.g., under the Anti-Deficiency Act and the Davis-Bacon law); state (under the diversity jurisdiction statute and other federal statutes and for federal programs such as Medicare and Medicaid); city (for basic services such as police and fire protection and trash, collection); and social laboratory for Congress, in which its residents have no voting representation (dealing with such issues as gun control, government-funded abortions, school vouchers and needle exchange programs). It is taught by a former D.C. Attorney General, whose office is required to give independent, non-political legal opinions to the Mayor, the agencies and the D.C. Council and to litigate these issues and others on behalf of the city, its Mayor, Council, agencies and commissions, officials and employees. The professor previously served as General Counsel to the U.S. House of Representatives. The course examines how the federal and local courts and legislatures have wrestled with the issues and consider what policy changes should be made in the future, such as statehood; voting representation in the U.S. House and Senate; budget autonomy for locally raised revenues; prosecution authority over local crimes; and authority to appoint judges and establish jurisdiction for the local courts. A student who completes this course should have knowledge and understanding of the law governing the District of Columbia and the legal issues it faces in the future. (Short papers)

6411-11 Health Care Law Seminar: Medical Devices (2) Kahan
This class will examine the laws and regulations governing the development and marketing of medical devices in the U.S. This class will focus on how the FDA approves medical devices, including novel technologies, the regulation of investigational devices, and the regulation of devices after approval. This class will also cover FDA authority over the promotion and advertising of devices post-approval and FDA tools for enforcing the device authorities, including recalls, seizures, injunctions, and criminal prosecutions. (Research Paper and class participation)

6411-12 Health Care Law Seminar: Traumatic Brain Injury (2) Kaplen
This seminar will examine the issues that confront attorneys in their representation of an individual with a traumatic brain injury, both in and out of the courtroom. The intertwined medical and legal issues related to brain injury and its consequences will also be studied. Topics relating to public perception of brain injury and implications for the legal profession, necessary areas of proof including the use of demonstrative evidence, expert witnesses, challenges to the admission of expert testimony, and trial practice skills in both the prosecution and defense will be discussed. Accessing government benefits and the legal implications of the concussion crisis in amateur and professional sports are other included topics. (Research paper and class participation)

6411-20 Health Care Law Seminar: Antitrust in the Health Care Sector (2) Leibenluft, (TBD)
This seminar will address the application of antitrust to hospitals, physicians, health plans, and drug manufacturers; antitrust analysis of professional restraints, provider networks and managed care contracting, ACOs, joint ventures, hospital and health plan mergers, conduct of dominant firms, and pharmaceutical industry conduct that can deter generic entry; exemptions and immunities; practical issues for private or government lawyers who advise on or prosecute health antitrust matters; and, the policy challenges in applying antitrust in health care markets. The course is aimed at students who intend to practice antitrust law or work either in the government or private sector on health care issues. Prerequisite: Law 6402 (Antitrust Law) or Law 6410 (Health Care Law) or permission of the instructor. (Research paper and class participation)

6426-10 Public Law Seminar: Elections (2) Overton
This seminar will explore and analyze current election issues, such as voter registration, voter identification requirements, voter challenges, overseas and military voting, early voting and absentee voting, voting machines, deceptive practices, and recounts. (Research paper)

6466-10 Environmental Law Seminar: Energy Commodities (2) Malyshev, Waldman
This seminar is at the intersection of U.S. federal regulation of physical commodity contracts (such as crude oil, natural gas, emissions and renewable certificates or bitcoin) and how these contracts are traded domestically and internationally. The seminar provides a comprehensive overview of commodities hedging and risk mitigation and looks into the regulatory response to the financial crisis of 2008. The seminar will explore who the market participants are and how they are regulated. It will trace the commoditization of environmental attributes and explore how they are used for renewable energy development and project finance. It will explore historic commodity manipulations from Enron to LIBOR. Business students also will benefit from this seminar. (Research paper and class participation)

6496-10 Intellectual Property Law Seminar: Legislation (2) Mossinghoff, Oman
This seminar will examine legal, economic, political and technological forces that prompt Congress to enact or revise intellectual property laws, the complex legislative steps necessary to enact such laws, and their statutory interpretation after enactment. Topics will include specific examples of past congressional enactments, pending federal legislation, the need for future action by Congress, and the legislative process generally, including the role played by congressional staff, trade associations, public interest groups, and the expert government agencies. (Research paper)

6497-10 Selected Topics in IP Law: Trade Secrets (2) Pade, Patel
With the increasing importance of technology and the ease with which information can be accessed and shared, managing incoming and outgoing trade-secret risks has become one of the most important legal issues facing corporations today—demonstrated by new domestic and international legislation on this very subject. The law has to strike a balance between encouraging and protecting commercial investments in research and other endeavors, and preserving an individual’s right to change employment or to compete directly against a former employer. This course will examine the theory, policy, and practice of trade secrets and explore what a trade secret is and how it differs from other types of property protection. We will discuss trade-secret laws’ interrelationships with other areas of the law, including corporate management of information, employee mobility, and economic espionage. We will look at ways in which an organization can identify and protect its trade secrets and manage risk associated with exposure to others’ trade secrets. Finally, the course will analyze civil and criminal disputes involving trade secrets, particularly methods of and challenges involved in litigating such cases, through an in-depth review of state and federal trade secret statutes and case law, both within the U.S. and abroad. (Examination)

6509-21 Government Contracts Seminar: Foreign Government Contracting (2) Yukins, A. Green
This seminar will examine many issues associated with the increase in public procurement being done across borders—whether through international aid assistance or foreign military sales, or direct purchases by foreign government. This new, highly globalized public procurement market presents special legal and policy issues, including export controls, anti-corruption requirements, and unique legal rules for certain types of foreign assistance. This course, co-taught by a co-director in the government contracts program and a senior member of the bar, offers an introduction to the practical and real-world challenges of transnational public procurement. (Research paper)

6509-22 Government Contracts Seminar: Procurement Reform (2) Yukins
This seminar offers a review of emerging issues in U.S. procurement law, using information technology procurement and other critical market sectors as a starting point for analysis; we will also be looking to international procurement law, as a comparative counter-example to U.S. law. Prerequisite or concurrent registration: Law 6500 or Law 6502, or permission of instructor. (Research paper)

6562-10 Public International Law Seminar: Arms Control (2) Carnahan, Youmans
This seminar will examine the underlying rationale behind various international arms control, counterterrorism and non-proliferation agreements to which the United States is a party, both strategic and conventional. Students will study the negotiations which brought these agreements into force, review their major provisions, and discuss issues involving the implementation of and compliance with these agreements. Federal implementing legislation will also be addressed, with emphasis on the Atomic Energy Act of 1954. Prerequisite or concurrent registration: Law 6520 (International Law). (Research paper)

6869-10 Selected Topics in National Security Law: Problems Trying Terrorists (2) Breinholt
The course is intended to be a deep-dive into the art and mechanics of trial advocacy in the specific context of U.S. terrorism prosecutions. It is a combination of criminal law, evidence, national security law, and trial advocacy. The non-exclusive emphasis will be on the “material support to terrorists” crimes, which are by far the most common choice for U.S. terrorism prosecutors these days. Prerequisite: Law 6230 (Evidence). (Writing Assignments)
This seminar provides students with the knowledge and skills necessary to become effective practitioners in the fields of government oversight and internal investigations and examines the role of the Department of Homeland Security, Office of Inspector General in protecting national security. The seminar focuses heavily on Inspector General legal authorities, the report writing process, and effective interviewing techniques. This seminar also examines oversight mechanisms within the Department of Justice, the Department of Defense, and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence. (Research paper and class participation)

6652-12 Legal Drafting (Transactional) (2 or 3) Berl
This course focuses on drafting documents used in transactions by or with corporations. With each document students will discuss the business context giving rise to the need for that document and prepare a draft to memorialize the transaction. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6652-13 Legal Drafting (Civil Litigation) (2 or 3) Lynch
This course focuses on drafting in the practice of federal civil litigation, including a complaint, answer, interrogatories, request for documents, response, motion to compel discovery, and motion for summary judgment. The goal is for students to gain confidence in their lawyering and litigation strategy skills. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6652-14 Legal Drafting (Criminal Litigation) (2 or 3) Coates L.
This course focuses on drafting criminal litigation documents, including a “Gerstein,” an indictment, discovery and plea materials, a motion or opposition to a motion to suppress evidence, proposed jury voir dire, proposed jury instructions, and a sentencing memorandum. Students will learn to exercise effective drafting techniques and strategy while maintaining ethical standards. For several assignments, students will be asked to participate in an oral exercise that helps form the basis of the written assignment. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6652-15 Legal Drafting (Mergers & Acquisitions) (2 or 3) Mutryn
This section of legal drafting will focus on the legal concepts, current terms and conditions and applicable law related to acquisitions of private entities and the drafting and negotiation of the principal legal documents used in connection with such transactions. Prerequisite for J.D. students: Law 6250 or permission of the instructor. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6652-21 Legal Drafting (Transactional) (2 or 3) Villa
Students learn the fundamental skills necessary to draft transactional and litigation documents which are most commonly used by in house attorneys. This will include mastering basic drafting principles, discussing the business context giving rise to the need for particular documents, and developing the strategy for structuring and negotiating contracts. Students will also get practical application in the full cycle of the drafting process for transactional documents, such as contracts, licenses, and other agreements. For several in class assignments, students will be asked to participate in an oral exercise that helps form the basis of the written assignment. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6652-22 Legal Drafting (Transactional) (2 or 3) Minniti
This course focuses on the full cycle of drafting transactions documents, with a focus on common transactions in the sports industry. Students will master basic drafting principles, discuss the business context giving rise to the need for particular documents, and learn strategy for structuring and negotiating contracts. This course will be offered for 2 credits in the Fall 2017 semester.

6668-10 Field Placement (1, 2, 3 or 4) Tillipman
Students earn academic credit for externships with qualifying judicial, government, and non-profit (501(c)) organizations. Students may participate in the Field Placement Program after they have successfully completed the law school's full-time first-year curriculum. Students who have not completed the entire full-time first-year curriculum may be eligible to participate in the Program if they can demonstrate that their placement will provide sufficient contemporaneous training to ensure the quality of the student educational experience in the Field Placement Program. During the fall and spring semesters, the placement must be located in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. Students may earn credit for externships outside of the D.C. metropolitan area, including international externships, during the summer session only. Students must complete two full academic years of law school prior to receiving credit for an international field placement. Students register for this course through the Field Placement Program (see Program portal page for deadlines and required forms). The assistant dean for field placement must approve the placements in order to finalize registration. Students enrolled in this course must fulfill a classroom component requirement by enrolling concurrently in Law 6469, 6669, 6670, 6671, 6672, 6674, or in another Law School course along with Law 6673, as determined by the assistant dean. Students who have already taken a corequisite course in conjunction with a previous placement (for which they earned Field Placement credit) may be eligible to waive the corequisite course requirement and participate in advanced field placement. All waiver requests must be approved by the assistant dean for field placement. Students participating in advanced field placement are required to complete reflective learning exercises under the supervision of a designated faculty member. Advanced field placement is not available to students seeking credit for international externships, regardless of any previous corequisite course(s) taken. Students may enroll concurrently in this course and any other clinical course only with the permission of both instructors. This course is graded on a CR/NC basis and requires students to complete 60 hours of work and 5 pages of original and substantive writing per credit. Students may earn up to 4 field placement credits per semester for a total of no more than 8 credits for this course in their degree program. Students participating in the Domestic Violence Project must register, through the Field Placement Program, for this course for 1 to 4 credits and enroll concurrently in Law 6674. Permission of the assistant dean for field placement is required prior to registration in this course and any corequisite courses. Additional information about the program, including a detailed description of program requirements, its registration process, and other policies and procedures is located in the Field Placement Student Handbook. Students are responsible for reading the handbook and complying with all program policies and procedures. If you have any questions regarding this requirement or about the Field Placement Program, please contact Nikki Keeley, Assistant Director for Field Placement, at nkeele@law.gwu.edu.
